Get a free bike parking corral

As you have no doubt noticed, bicycling is booming in the city, seven out of ten San Franciscans rode a bike last year. The City is working with business owners from around the city to install on-street bike parking corrals, free of charge.

Recently, in Spring 2010, the City installed five corrals that each park from six to 12 bicycles on Valencia Street. These well-used corrals have been benefitting the local businesses by giving customers a central place to park their bicycle, freeing up sidewalks and encouraging the huge number of people on bikes to stop and shop.

The City is already looking to install this bike parking solution in more neighborhoods.
